To Our Friends in the Trade:

For a number of years we have supplied some of our customers with certain strains of Broccoli, Fennel and Onion Seed raised exclusively for us by one of our Italian friends. The growing and selecting of stock seed of these varieties have always been supervised by ourselves.

Because of lack of sufficient stock seed, we have in the past only been able to furnish this seed to a limited circle of friends but we have now sufficient stock to enable us to offer these superior strains to the trade in general.

We shall be pleased to send you samples, free of charge, of any variety you might wish to compare with strains from other sources.

Contract orders for next year's crop should reach us not later than February 15, 1930. We book same subject to pro rata delivery in case of short crop or other causes beyond our control. Orders received later than March 15 may be accepted if crop conditions allow, but they will not be subject to pro rata delivery.
